Conclusion of this story

SDX Alliance is a large ~~code~~ company that sells computer, computer components, and software. Ralph quietly re-uses this same code in the SDX Alliance product, and does not think to tell anyone that he has used the code from his last job.

Before the product is released, it has used the code from his last job. Before the product is released, it has to undergo a four-month long quality assurance process review. When his manager informed Ralph of the problem, Ralph admits he did not realize he had made a mistake because he was not familiar with copyright laws.
