

Subject, predicate, object

Name: _____

A. Subject and predicate

All sentences have two main parts - a subject (naming part) and a predicate (doing part).

Subject (contains a noun or a pronoun)

Mrs Smith

Predicate (contains a verb)

bakes (verb) delicious cakes

Make sentences

How many different sentences can you make combining subjects and predicates from these sentences? Work in your class workbook.

Subject	Predicate
Monkeys	love bananas
The children	climb trees
The boys	play hide and seek

B. Subject, verb and object

Predicates can be divided into two parts again, namely verb (action word) and object (the thing that receives the action). To find the object you have to ask What or Who/Whom after the verb. Note: not all verbs have objects.

Subject	Predicate (VERB: action word)	Predicate (OBJECT: The item receiving the verb)
Mrs Smith	bakes	delicious cakes

C. Find the subject and object

In the sentences below, underline the verbs. Ask what or who/whom and then write the object in the space provided.

- Mark damaged _____.
- Cindy helped _____.
- The lions ate _____.

Make sentences

Write four sentences of your own that have a subject and an object. Underline the verb in each sentence.

D. Complete these sentences by adding a predicate that includes an object

- Everyone in the family _____
- She _____
- His father _____

E. Complete these sentences by adding a subject

- _____ fly in the sky.
- _____ watched the tennis on the television.
- _____ have very large ears.
